STRONG PROGRAM FOR CONFERENCE

Large Number of Residents of Seymour as Well as Delegates Hear Addresses.

MUCH INTEREST IN SESSIONS

Principal Address This Evening by Dr. Harry Andrews King, of Moores Hill.

The eleventh annual Conference of the Seymour district of the Methodist church, which is in session in this city, is pronounced one of the best ever held in this district. There are about seventy ministers and delegates present, representing eight counties composing the district. The program is regarded as one of the strongest ever arranged for the Conference and the various addresses and discussions have been heard by a large number of citizens as well as visitors.

At the meeting Monday evening the principal address was delivered by Dr. L. C. Bentley, district superintendent of the Indianapolis district. His text was, "Quench not the spirit; despise not the prophet; prove all things and hold fast that which is good." The sermon was greatly appreciated by the large audience who were present and has been highly commended for its directness, clearness and force. Dr. Bentley is an orator of much ability and his addresses are heard with much interest wherever he lectures.

At the opening business session, Monday afternoon, a tabulating committee, composed of Revs. E. G. Jann, of Vernon; C. P. Gibbs, of Vallonia, and W. H. Thompson, of Henryville, was appointed to receive the various reports to be given by the delegates. These reports will be given during the Conference and filed with the committee who will arrange the totals for the final report Wednesday.

During the business session it was also voted that in licensing local preachers each applicant would be considered upon its merits. Heretofore such local preachers have been required to attend one of the church colleges or pass such examinations as may be arranged.

At the session this morning the regular business was transacted. Dr. R. H. Moore, field secretary of the Anti-Saloon League, was present and made a strong address upon the liquor subject. He said that the local option law was here to stay and that as it was a question of right, would not be overcome by the wrong. He stated that the ministers must give their hearty co-operation in furthering this work, as much depended upon their services.

At the meeting this morning Dr. Harry Andrews King, president of Moores Hill College, gave a short address upon the success of the abolition of the saloon in Kansas, and pointed out the advancement which had been made in that state. He believed that the same good results can be obtained in Indiana by the active, earnest work of the people.

Dr. King will also be the speaker at the meeting this evening, and as he has a wide reputation as an orator, will doubtless be heard by a large audience. His address will be upon an educational subject, the work in which he is deeply interested.

Wednesday morning Dr. A. R. Pitkin, pastor of the M. E. church at Columbus, will deliver a sermon which is being looked forward to with much interest. Dr. Pitkin is a strong speaker and will be heard by a large audience.

At 10:15 a. m., A. H. Godard, secretary of the Young Men's Christian Association at Indianapolis, will be present and will offer some remarks concerning the Laymen's Movement, which has already received so much attention by the various churches of all denominations throughout the United States.

In the afternoon the final address of the Conference will be delivered by Dr. Virgil Tevis, of the Connersville district, who was formerly pastor of the church in this city. Dr. Tevis is one of the most eloquent speakers in the Methodist church and much interest is shown in his address.

CORONER'S VERDICT.

Give Apoplexy as Cause of Death of The Late William Rupp.

The coroner held the inquest of the sudden death of the late William Rupp Monday evening, and after hearing all the evidence found that the cause of his death was apoplexy.

When he made a casual investigation Sunday morning, Coroner Dowden was of this opinion, which was verified by the testimony of the witnesses.

THRESHING BEGINS.

Farmers Marketing New Wheat, After Long Delay.

The wheat in many places was in condition for threshing today and a large quantity of new wheat was placed on the market this afternoon. The reports indicate that the quality is good in spite of the unfavorable weather and that little damage was done by the rains.

The local dealers are still paying one dollar per bushel, although the Chicago market is somewhat lower.

DIED.

RODMAN—Dr. W. M. Rodman, a well-known resident of Brownstown, died this morning about 11 o'clock, at his home, after a long illness of over a year. The deceased was nearly eighty-nine years of age and is survived by a widow, two sons and two daughters. He was a veteran of the civil war. He was a member of the Brownstown Methodist church.

Funeral services held Thursday morning, conducted by the E. F. Schneider, pastor of the M. E. church.

By an agreement reached today, the B. & O. S-W. paid Mrs. Anna Lee, of this city, $1,585 for the death of her son. He was one of the five persons killed in the Fort Ritner wreck last December.

It is stated that there was a light frost last night, although not enough to do any damage. G. H. Anderson found evidence of it on flowers in his yard. Two Methodist preachers, who are staying with him also saw it.

W. E. Hamer, conductor on the east-end local, is taking a few days' vacation to recuperate.

WILL RECEIVE BIDS TOMORROW NIGHT

Board of Works Will Consider Estimates for the Materials for Third Street Sewer.

WILL BUILD FLOOD DRAIN

Old Sewer Cause of Much Trouble to Residents.—Efforts to Repair Unsuccessful.

Tomorrow evening the board of public works will meet in special session to open bids for the supplying of materials to be used in the construction of the storm sewer, which is to be built on West Third street. According to the action of the board, the work will be done under its supervision, and no contract will be awarded for the construction of the drain. The law provides, however, that whenever a city uses materials to the amount of over one hundred dollars in the construction of public improvements, such supplies can be purchased only after proposals for bids for the furnishing of such materials are received, after the regular publication. The bids will be opened tomorrow evening and the council, in regular session Thursday evening, will award the contracts.

The city has had much trouble with the sewer on West Third street, and, although several efforts have been made to overcome the difficulty, the sewer overflows after each heavy storm. The city engineer was instructed some time ago to make an investigation of the condition of the drain and ascertain what was the cause of the trouble. A report showed that a drain four feet square was constructed to Pine street, where the main sewer stopped with a dead end. Leading from the sewer, however, were two fifteen-inch tiles which carried the water to another tile two feet in diameter. This sewer leads directly to the river.

The report given to the board shows that the overflow was caused by the small outlets, which were insufficient to carry away the large volumes of water coming through the main sewer. It was pointed out that the way to remedy this was to place a two-foot tile in the main sewer, but above the outlets now used. This will permit the flood water to be carried away and relieve the pressure on the sewer where it has been breaking.

The board believed that this would solve the difficulty and accordingly made arrangements to open the additional outlet in the dead end. The flood waters which will be carried away by the outlet which is to be constructed will follow a tile to the large ditch west of the city and from there will be carried to the river.

There are many opinions as to the success of the proposed improvement, but the board was of the belief that it would be satisfactory, and provide the immediate relief for the residents of that part of the city who have suffered from the flood waters.

The work of constructing the new outlet has been necessarily delayed because of the time necessary for the advertising. As soon as the contract for the materials is awarded, the work will begin and will be pushed to completion.

SHOT TO DEATH WHILE ASLEEP

Farmer Murdered As He Lay Beside Wife and Children.

EMPLOYEE IS UNDER ARREST

Albert Sprague, Living Near Greensburg, Was Murdered as He Lay in Bed, a Shot from a Twelve-Gauge Shotgun Entering Just Below Right Ear, Causing Instant Death—Farm Hand Held to Answer.

Greensburg, Ind., July 19.—Albert Sprague, aged thirty-seven, a farmer whose home is ten miles southwest of this city, was murdered in bed while asleep with his wife and two children. Mrs. Sprague says that she was awakened about midnight by the report of a shot and called her husband repeatedly. Receiving no answer, she reached over to shake him, and in doing so her hand came in contact with warm blood. Jumping from the bed, Mrs. Sprague ran into the hall to call Ben Noble, a farm employee who occupied an upstairs room. He did not answer, but she heard him moving around in a room on the lower floor, directly across from the room in which the murder was committed.

Mrs. Sprague lighted the lamp and, hurrying to the kitchen where her husband's shotgun was usually kept and loaded, she found it in its accustomed place, but the gun was warm and smoking and a loaded shell was in it.

The woman asked Noble to notify the neighbors, but instead of going directly Mrs. Sprague says he would start and then return, attempting to console her. This he did several times but finally spread the alarm.

Noble says he went to bed about 10 o'clock. However, his bed shows that he only lay across the foot of it evidently without undressing. Noble was arrested and brought to this city.

Feeling against Noble is strong here, but no violence is feared. Noble and Sprague were on the best of terms and had never had trouble of any kind.

Sprague's death was caused by a load of shot from a twelve-gauge shotgun, which entered just below the right ear at the base of the brain and ranged upward.

THE BODY DISSECTED

Revealed That Belle Elmore's Flesh Had Been Carved From the Bones.

London, July 19.—Scotland Yard now believes that Dr. Crippen, wanted for the murder of his wife, Belle Elmore, an American actress, if he did not flee to America, is still in London, and they express confidence of arresting him here. They are convinced that he has not gone to the continent.

Regent's canal has been dragged unsuccessfully for the victim's bones. Inspector Dow, describing the remains at the inquest, said they consisted simply of a mass of human flesh carved from the bones, of which there was not the slightest trace.

The coroner's inquest brought into prominence the remarkable remissness of the police in not watching Crippen and in allowing him a clear start. The absence of any sort of explanation of this fact continues to be sharply criticised. The doctor's statement suggests the diabolical deliberation with which the murderer carved up the body, the awful work necessarily taking several hours. It was presumably carried out in the cellar, where the flesh was later buried, as there were no marks of blood anywhere else in the house.

New York Detectives Alert. New York, July 19.—Inspector Russell, head of the detective bureau, has heard from Scotland Yard that Dr. Hawley Harvey Crippen and Miss Neve, or Le Neve, as she calls herself, may be on the steamer Kroonland, which is expected to dock tomorrow morning.

Burns Arrested at His Home. Evansville, Ind., July 19.—John W. Burns, former city attorney at Rockport, who is charged with obtaining large sums of money from the banks at Rockport, Lake and Elberfeld, was arrested at his home in Rockport. The charge on which the arrest is made is for the forgery of a $600 check on a bank at Richland.

TAFT DAY WILL BE BIG EVENT

President to Speak August 30 At Winona Lake.

TEDDY GIVES FIGHTING EDGE

Galaxy of National Stars Coming to Speak For Indiana Republican Ticket Includes Nelson, Dolliver, Smith, Depew, Cummins, Bristow, Bradley, Smith, La Follette, and Many Others —C. W. Fairbanks Expected to Help.

[Indianapolis Letter.]

Indiana Republican now know what Theodore Roosevelt meant when he spoke to the heedful foreigners of "the fighting edge." Knowledge that Col. Roosevelt and President Taft are coming to Indiana this campaign has served to give Republicans the "fighting edge" that is needed for winning.

When Col. Roosevelt speaks in Indiana October 16, he will speak for the success of the Republican ticket. He will make the right sort of a speech. He will appeal in the most direct, convincing and simple way to all sorts of voters. Not only will he make the proper appeal, but he will put the proper spirit into the rank and file of party workers.

President Taft will be able to tell Indiana people of great things achieved by his administration through a Republician congress. He will be able to point to accomplishments and to pledge further progressive good. So President Taft's coming is a matter on which Indiana Republicans are congratulating themselves. He will be in Indiana August 30. He will be heard in Winona, where he will be presented and surrounded by the best of the Republican party to show in Indiana.

Taft day and Roosevelt day will loom large in Indiana politics this year. But Roosevelt and Taft are not the only stars to be seen in the 1910 campaign.

Governor C. E. Hughes, of New York, who made one of the strongest speeches of the 1908 campaign in Indiana, probably will be heard in several passenger killed, and 2,823,132 passenger miles for each person injured. For 1908 the figures show 76,332,905 passenger miles for each passenger killed, and 2,516,687 passenger miles for each passenger injured.

CASUALTIES BY RAIL OFFICIALLY SET OUT

Death Roll for 1909 Numbered Nearly Nine Thousand.

Washington, July 19.—According to figures furnished to the interstate commerce commission, and just made public by them, the total number of casualties to persons on the railways for the year ended June 30, 1909, was 104,348, of which 8,722 represented the number killed and 95,626 the number injured. The number of passengers killed in the course of the year 1909 was 253 and the number injured 10,311. In 1909 one passenger was killed for every 3,523,606 carried, and one injured for every 86,458 carried.

For 1908 the figures show that 2,355,933 passengers were carried for one killed, and 77,017 passengers carried for one injured. With respect to the number of miles traveled the figures for 1909 show that 115,056,611 passenger miles were accomplished by each passenger killed, and 2,823,132 passenger miles for each person injured.

Feeling against Noble is strong here, but no violence is feared. Noble and Sprague were on the best of terms and had never had trouble of any kind.

Sprague's death was caused by a load of shot from a twelve-gauge shotgun, which entered just below the right ear at the base of the brain and ranged upward.

Hoosier Objects to Paying Taxes on Money Lost at Poker.

Indianapolis, July 19.—Maybrey Kibler of Newton county appeared before the state board of tax commissioners to appeal from the action of the county assessor, who listed him for $6,000 cash. Kibler paid taxes on the money last year and the year before, but claimed that he did not have it on March 1 of this year. When asked what had become of it he replied that he had lost the entire sum at poker in Chicago.

that wrote the Democratic state platform.

Take the case of Clinton county.

The strong aspirant for legislative honors is a Democrat who declares in entering the contest that he will not accept the nomination except on a platform declaring for the maintenance of existing temperance laws. He demands to be instructed by his home Democrats. He will be nominated, and with such instructions.

Then there is Montgomery county, where a hard and bitter fight has been made to force a nominee and resolutions in conflict against the demands of the Democratic state platform.

There are many other counties where like action is probable. The Democratic state committee and the organization of brewer bosses will be glad when the last legislative convention is over.

WHITTAKER RISES.

Victim of Marshall's Bitter Partisan-ship Vindicated at Nation's Capital.

Mr. Champlin.

"Very well. I'm an hour ahead and if nothing breaks shall have no trouble in reaching the goal on time. Are you ready?"

"I am."

"Step in, Miss—I beg your pardon. I didn't get your name."

"Hood—Jaqueline Hood," replied the girl.

Mr. Champlin started. "Jack Hood!" he exclaimed.

"The same. Is there anything about Jack Hood that you don't like?"

"I've heard she's the worst feminine daredevil the world has ever seen."

"You've also heard probably that she knows all about an auto. Perhaps she may aid you in case of trouble."

Governor Marshall, and Democratic partisanship, broke in on the good work of the reformatory, and the District of Columbia gets Whittaker. In return for the loss of a Whittaker, the state of Indiana must put up with Doc Peyton, a ward politician, who has been in hot water ever since he went into office and began to force his henchmen into state jobs.

So far has been the conduct of Peyton, at times, that the Democratic governor has declared he would "be glad to shove the Jeffersonville reformatory mess into the Ohio river."

Peyton has been a proper subject for swift removal several times. But rather than "cripple the Democratic party," Governor Marshall has restrained his "non-partisanship," and has whitewashed Peyton with much zeal.

Even when Peyton pleaded guilty to having paid $700 for a buffet for the prison dining room, Governor Marshall refused to take the offending warden's resignation.

TAFT IS OUT OF OHIO CAMPAIGN

At Least That Is What His Friends Declare.

IS NOT WRITING PLATFORMS

Neither Does He Desire to Figure as Dictator of Party Policies Nor to Act as Arbiter in Factional Fights—The Dick-Ellis Visit, It Is Pointed Out at Beverly, Was Made Entirely Too Much of by the Press.

Beverly, Mass., July 18.—President Taft is not going to draw any platforms for use at Republican state conventions this fall. He has no desire to figure as the dictator of party policies, and will not assume the authority of a writer-in-chief of these more or less important documents. Neither does he intend to become the arbiter in factional fights, and he will not attempt to select men for any office as administration candidates. The president has made it clear to friends that if platforms were to be drawn by Republicans endorsing his administration he preferred that they be drawn in conformity with what "he has done and what he has said," as one man phrased it. Mr. Taft expressed the belief that in most cases delegates to state conventions possessed enough interest and intelligence to draw platforms that suited them.

He let it be known that he had not come out with an out-and-out endorsement of the Ohio platform that Senator Charles Dick and Wade Ellis of Ohio brought up here Friday. He did take a brief look at some of the notes that the senator and the state chairman carried, but that was about all. The senator and Mr. Ellis were of the opinion after seeing the president that their platform would serve as a model for the other conventions.

The president did not repudiate this assertion to callers, but he did let it be known that he would not bother with other platforms. Friends of Mr. Taft reiterated the statement that he is out of the campaign in Ohio.

A NEW METHOD

Flypaper Used to Stop Mother-in-Law's Tongue.

Indianapolis, July 18.—"I'll teach you to keep your mouth shut," Mrs. Clara Brandon, 4004 East Michigan street, is alleged to have exclaimed to her mother-in-law, Mrs. Lavinia Brandon, and fitting the action to the word, she is further alleged to have slapped a piece of sticky, fly-strewn flypaper over the elder Mrs. Brandon's mouth. She made a good job of it, pasting the edges around her mother-in-law's ears.

At least that was the story told by the elder Mrs. Brandon when she appeared in police court against her daughter-in-law. Her features still bore the marks of the paper and her face and ears were decorated with fly wings and glue. She left the "evidence" on her face over night to convince the judge, she said. The daughter-in-law was arrested, charged with assault and battery. Judge Collins continued the case until next Friday.

Horribly Burned by Lightning.
Lafayette, Ind., July 18.—Glenn Rhodes, who was in a barn which was struck by lightning at Winthrop, is still unconscious and he will probably die. The lightning struck Rhodes on the right shoulder, crossed his chest and went down his left side, tearing his shoe from his foot. His body was burned in a frightful manner.

Dr. Crippen Still at Large.
London, July 18.—The search for Dr. Crippen, the American who is being hunted for as the murderer of his wife, and Miss Leneve, who, it is said, accompanied him on his flight, is still without result, and so far as known the police have no information that is likely to afford a clue to the couple's hiding place.

Washington, Ind., July 18.—Fred Keger, the B. & O. S. W. shop guard who was shot last Wednesday, asked Sheriff Colbert to notify Mayor McCarthy that he was ready for arraignment on the charge of assault and battery with intent to murder, and asked the mayor to receive his plea in the jail, where he is confined on a cot. This the mayor refused to do, but informed him that he would take his plea over the telephone. Keger is still in a dangerous condition.

The Means Suggested the End.
Evansville, Ind., July 18.—Fred Baumeier, a bridegroom of a week, came upon an old razor and was seized with a sudden impulse to commit suicide. Prompt work saved his life, and he is now held at police headquarters as an insanity suspect.

After doctoring for about twelve years for a bad stomach trouble, and spending nearly five hundred dollars for medicine and doctors' fees, I purchased my wife one box of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets, which did her so much good that she continued to use them and they have done her more good than all of the medicine I bought before.—Samuel Boyer, Folsom, Iowa. A WEAK WOMAN AND HER STORY

In Floral, Ark., Lives a Lady Who Feels That Her Strength Was Restored by Cardui.

Floral, Ark.—"I must speak a good word for Cardui," writes Mrs. Viola Baker, of this place.

"About a month ago I was in very bad health. I was so weak and nervous that I was not able to do my housework."

"My husband bought me one bottle of Cardui, the woman's tonic. I took it according to directions and now I am in good health."

"I think Cardui is a fine tonic for weak women."

"And you are not the only lady who thinks so, Mrs. Baker."

"Thousands, like you, have written to tell of the wonderful benefit Cardui has been to them."

Cardui contains no minerals, or other powerful drugs. It contains no glycerin or other mawkish-tasting ingredients.

It is just a pure, natural extract, of natural vegetable herbs, that have been found to regulate the womanly functions and strengthen the female system.

All druggists sell Cardui.

REPUBLICAN STATE TICKET.

United States Senator—Albert J. Beveridge, Indianapolis.

Secretary of State—Otis E. Gully, Danville.

Auditor of State—John E. Reed, Muncie.

Treasurer of State—Jonce Monyhan, Orleans.

Attorney General—Finley P. Mount, Crawfordsville.

State Geologist—W. S. Blatchley, Terre Haute.

State Statistician—J. L. Peetz, Kokomo.

Judge Supreme Court, Second District—Oscar H. Montgomery, Seymour.

Judge Supreme Court, Third District Robert M. Miller, Franklin.

Judge Appellate Court, First District—Cassius C. Hadley, Danville; Ward H. Watson, Charlestown.

Judges of the Appellate Court, Second District—Daniel W. Comstock, Richmond; Joseph M. Rabb, Williamsport; Harry B. Tuthill, Michigan City.

The Republican speaking campaign will open in Indiana the third week in September, according to the present arrangements of the central committee. Senator Beveridge will return home about that time and be ready to give his time to the campaign. The Democratic campaign will also open rather late this year, and very few speeches will be made before the last week in September.

The farmers throughout the county have reason to rejoice because of the favorable weather which affords them an opportunity to complete their farm work which has been delayed by the frequent rains. Before the wheat was harvested it was believed that the yield would be large, but the rains will undoubtedly reduce the total crop to some extent. Just how serious this loss will be cannot be definitely ascertained until after the wheat is threshed. It is hoped that the yield will be large, and that the year's work for the farmer will result in fair returns, which he undoubtedly deserves.

MORE PARTY "HARMONY"

Eighth District Democrats Repudiate Their State Platform.

[Special Correspondence.]

Indianapolis, July 19.—Reports from the Eighth district indicate that Republicans are well pleased with the Democratic resolutions passed by the convention which nominated J. A. M. Adair for congress. It is pointed out that Mr. Adair's convention joined the other Democratic repudiators of the Democratic state platform, and put forth a tariff plank which is out of line with the state plank, written by Senator Shively. Where the state Democratic platform declares for a "tariff for public purposes," and against discrimination against industry, section, class or occupation, in the making of schedules, the Eighth district Democratic crowd loudly demands an immediate revision downward of the Payne tariff law, declaring the theory that Democrats are the real nifty boys to be depended on for revising everything downward. The Adair Democrats are in line with Governor T. R. Marshall for immediate revision of the tariff. In other words, they refuse to wait for the tariff commission idea to work out, but would plunge the country once more into industrial and business uncertainty. Their attack on existing prosperity, according to their own pronouncement, would be "immediate."

The Adair platform and the Marshall pronouncement for a tariff for revenue only, are taken by wise ones as a factional effort to push forward the tariff as the sole campaign issue, thus dodging other important questions.

Now there is no ground on which Republicans feel more at home than on the aggressive forcing of a protective tariff campaign. The people stand committed to the protective principle. They have voted, by tremendous pluralities to preserve in practical and beneficial effect the idea which for many years has proved its value as a prosperity producer and as a contentment promoter. The people are glad to acknowledge that protection is good enough for them, and they are quick to assert that they want no Democratic revision such as is proposed by Congressmen Adair's platform.

It is decidedly disheartening to Democrats like Senator Shively, who write party platforms for Democrats with an eye solely to vote catching, and who cover up the real Democratic purpose with a poutice of soft and meaningless phrases, to find districts like that of Adair breaking out and shouting for immediate revision, and for resumption of the old Democratic agitation of the tariff. It is disconcerting to Shively and the Taggart crowd to find such men as Adair and Governor Marshall trying to make a clean-cut issue of the tariff at a time when the evasive Democratic bosses would like to squirm away from the issue of protection and toll a few voters into camp on other questions.

A Democratic farmer in Henry county was interviewed a day or two ago by George W. Williams, a Knightstown merchant. The Democratic farmer had come in to trade. He had just bought his ten-year-old son a complete outfit of up-to-date clothing. Said Mr. Williams to the Democratic farmer: "How old were you before you owned an outfit that expensive?"

"Well, sir," replied the Democratic farmer, "I was way past twenty-one before I ever knew such luxuries and comforts as that boy of ten takes for granted today. Great Scott, but times have changed! Nowadays I am so situated that I can bring the folks in and they can buy what they want and they can pick things over and afford to make choice of the good things. Time was, some fifteen years ago, when we came in with our 19-cent corn and went to the store to buy a pair of shoes. We didn't buy anything but just what we had to have, those days. The dealer would ask what we wanted, and we would say, mighty quick, 'The cheapest you've got in the house.' That was the rule in the old, cheap days. But it is different now. We buy the good things because we can afford to do it, and we feel more comfortable and live in lots better contentment. For one I cannot understand why some politicians object to the good prices we have been getting for our farm products. So far as I am concerned, I do not ask for a change in conditions."

Mrs. Everette Meyer and sister, Miss Alice Weaver, went to Scottsburg this morning, accompanying that for their aunt, Mrs. S. C. Tile, who was returning to her home in Texas, after a visit with relatives in Indianapolis.

The report that one of the popular engineers on the B. & O. S.W., had been robbed of $500 was groundless. He did not know of the rumor until he returned to Seymour this morning.

pletion as rapidly as possible. Much of the work will be of concrete and will require some time to finish the outlet as planned.

It was feared that there would not be sufficient fall to carry the water, but the city engineer finds that there is a difference of about six feet between the final outlet at the ditch and the point where the new drain will begin.

The question regarding this sewer has been before the council for some time and the members hope that the method adopted may prove satisfactory.

CANNON ENTERS HOSTILE CLIME

Talks at Emporia, the Hot Bed of Insurgency.

PAYS RESPECTS TO BRISTOW

In Parliamentary Terms Uncle Joe Passes Short and Ugly Word on to Senator From Kansas, Points Out Way to Reach Aldrich if Latter Has Organized a Trust, and Lets Drop an Interesting Roosevelt Hint.

Emporia, Kan., July 19.—When a political writer stepped into the room of Speaker Joseph G. Cannon in the Hotel Whitley yesterday afternoon he found the speaker in a rocking chair near the window. Standing by him and holding his hand was William Allen White, the insurgent editor of the Emporia Gazette. Mr. White was in excellent spirits and was talking in kindly fashion as he wrung Mr. Cannon's hand. As for Uncle Joe, he looked up with a twinkle in his eye and told him what he thought about insurgents in general.

Not once did the talk take on a personal nature. Both the speaker and the insurgent editor-author were in the best of humor. They parried on the tariff question; they railed each other on that which confronts the American people, and each smiled as the other was successful in "coming back."

"We'll not have revision downward so long as 'Uncle Joe' cannonizes," volunteered White.

"Soon we'll have a red-headed insurgent novel with Vic Murdock as the hero, inflicted on the people by one William Allen White," was the good-natured rejoinder. At that moment a messenger arrived. Tearing open the telegram, Speaker Cannon read it with a boyish grin. "I knew he'd do it, all the time," he said. Then he read a telegram from the east in which the statement was made that Colonel Roosevelt will endorse President Taft's administration before he leaves on his speaking tour. Speaker Cannon replied to Senator Bristow's attack on the rubber schedule in his speech in the afternoon. When he arose to speak he again felt the effects of the heat, and Congressman Miller had to apply ice to his neck. He showed no signs of collapse, however, and concluded his talk.

"I do not say," he said, "that the senator [Bristow] wilfully falsified, because I do not know; but I do say that he either wilfully told what was not true or that he was ignorant, and so far as its effect upon his constituency is concerned, ignorance is as mischievous as an untruth. I submit that the senator intended his audience to understand that, notwithstanding the increase in the importation of crude rubber, the imports of manufactured rubber decreased. The truth is, as I have shown from the figures, that the importations of manufactured rubber increased under the Payne law in spite of 5 per cent higher duty. Upon these misstatements which Senator Bristow makes himself responsible for, he builds his charges against his brother senators. So far the statement is Mr. Bristow's; then he proceeds to put in quotation marks—what his authority is God knows, I do not—that Senator Aldrich and others proceeded at once to organize a rubber trust. I do not know whether or not Senator Aldrich and others organized a trust. Being uninformed, I neither deny nor affirm, but if Senator Aldrich, occupying his great position, did organize a trust, then under the Sherman anti-trust act, provided that trust is engaged in interstate commerce, he is liable not only to severe punishment by fine, but by imprisonment in the prison."

RYAN'S FIGHT AGAINST GANG

Bosses Cannot Coax Commoner Within Party Corral.

WHY TAGGART PUTS UP BARS

Men Who Betrayed Bryan and Kern in 1908 in Many States, Including Indiana, Cannot Expect Any Quarter in 1910 Battle for Rights of People—Kern Chooses to Flock With Iscarot Squad.

[Indianapolis Letter.]

In seeking a reason for the Taggart quarantine which bars W. J. Bryan out of the Indiana Democratic campaign of 1910, the reader of current events need go no further than the dispatches from Lincoln, Neb., in which is told the story of Mr. Bryan's present political crusade.

In a speech supporting county option in the Democratic county convention held at Lincoln, Mr. Bryan aroused tremendous enthusiasm, and carried the delegates with him, 134 to 31. In the preliminary struggle Mr. Bryan won, and he is making plans for a state wide campaign in Nebraska against the selfish interests which control the Democratic party, and which are striving at this time to prevent the adoption of a temperance plank in the Nebraska Democratic state convention.

Closing his intensely dramatic speech Mr. Bryan said: "We have a fight before us. I have decided what I am going to do. Those who desire to come with me, come. Those who desire to stay at home, stay."

Mr. Bryan made no effort to conceal his feeling that Indiana, Ohio and Missouri were lost to him in his 1908 race for president because of treachery on the part of the element, which, in Indiana is represented by Tom Taggart and his close corporation of brewers.

In forcing the fight against the liquor men in Nebraska, Missouri, Indiana and Ohio, Mr. Bryan not only is bent on reprisals, but is taking up a cause in which most of his followers in those states are interested already.

The Bryan movement in Nebraska has its counterpart in Indiana. Mr. Bryan's writings and speeches in Nebraska are complimented in Indiana by the actions of his loyal followers.

The trial of the new Bryanism is seen in Hancock county, where a candidate for the Democratic house leadership is marked to be slaughtered at the polls. The marks of Bryan can be found on the Boone county Democratic resolutions which repudiate the Taggart platform passed by the Democratic state convention.

Again in Wells county is found trace of Bryan's power with the people, and as in Wells, so in Johnson, the local Democrats have repudiated their own state platform.

It is so also in Bartholomew, Clinton, and in many other places. Everywhere in Indiana the Democrats who love Bryan are giving heed to his voice.

They hear Mr. Bryan at Lincoln, saying: "Those who desire to come with me, come." And in large numbers on the anti-Taggart issue, as well as on other Democratic issues which Taggart has dropped, the rank and file Democrats are sending word to Bryan that they have decided to follow him.

"Those who desire to stay at home, stay," says Mr. Bryan.

John W. Kern, running mate of Bryan in 1908, apparently chooses the discretionary part of valor, and prefers to "stay at home" during the Bryan crusade against the bosses.

Many Indiana Democrats regret that Mr. Kern cannot see his way clear to join them in their fight for the preservation of their rights to govern themselves in their own communities.

KOWTOW TO TOM.

Just to prove to the people that Tom Taggart is boss in the Indiana Democratic organization, the Indiana Democratic editors at French Lick in mid-summer meeting, passed the following resolution:

"We have long known and appreciated the kindly qualities of heart of our host, the Hon. Thomas Taggart. We have often had brought to our attention his philosophy of life that it is better to give than to receive, and that a man's life is noble just in the degree he serves his fellows. The splendid entertainment he has again this year provided for the members of our association, at his great French Lick hotel, is another evidence of his generous nature, and we experience a genuine pleasure in assuring him in a public manner of our personal attachment to him as a friend and of our unbounded faith in him as a man and a citizen."

All of which is exceedingly encouraging to Democrats who in the past have made the good fight against Taggart. Incidentally this resolution by Indiana Democratic editors leaves no doubt as to the true situation in the Democratic camp.

The New Castle Courier declares that Governor Marshall's attack on Theodore Roosevelt "stamps Marshall as a small-fry politician and demagogue." Why not just let it go at small-fry politician?"

Congressman Crumpler, who predicted last spring that the Taft administration would get some good legislation, is feeling good over the record made by congress.

A FASHION CHAT ON THE TREND OF THE MODE

Furnished by Pictorial Review
West 39th Street, New York City

The white serge suit to be worn at the seashore or mountains is often as severely tailored as the "old reliable" navy line. Although not new, both the blue and the white serge suit is in first style this season and there is no question as to their smartness and popularity with the really well-dressed woman.

Linen suits, decidedly smart in appearance, are worn more than ever and some of the linen weaves are splendid. Black satin collars and cuffs are popular, especially on white linen, while handsome embroidered sets go well with the colored ones.

The skirts of these suits are short and not full by any means. Every effort is made to retain the slender effect, drapery in to several simplicity about the ankles. Often it is the wide hem that holds plait or gathers within bounds at the ankles.

TAINTED NEWS FOR DEMOCRATS

Tavenner Stuff Investigated By Hoosier Editor.

CONFIRMS BIG TRUST STORY

Ridder and Oelrichs Connection Accounts for Harmon-Parker-Cleveland Complexion of 1910 Democracy in Indiana, and May Explain Those French Lick Editorial Cheers at Mention of Grover-Bryan Relegated by Taggart.

[Washington Letter.]

Your correspondent ran across a Democratic newspaper man from Indianapolis a day or two ago. He was here on pleasure bent, incident to a vacation trip, but made it a point to inquire into the source of those C. H. Tavenner letters which are being sent free of charge from this city to 150 Indiana Democratic papers. I may say that the inquiring Democratic journalist went back to Indiana completely disgusted. He asked to be kept out of print. He found out a few things. Here they are:

Tavenner, with many busy stenographers, deals out tainted dope for the international shipping combine, to many papers in many states, all free. So much for the Taggart philanthropy.

The Tavenner bureau is allied with the steel trust, the sugar trust, the oil combine, the harvester trust and the beef trust.

Tavenner was given his job on the recommendation of Hermann Oelrichs, who was head of the international shipping combine.

Oelrichs and his big trust, were allied with steel, oil, sugar, beef and harvester trusts.

Oelrichs had charge of Democratic national finances in Cleveland's time and in the heyday of Alton Parker, and through him the trusts managed the Democratic party.

Hermann Ridder followed Oelrichs as treasurer of the Democratic national committee, and Ridder in his turn, represents the allied trusts, and the wedding of these monster combines with the Democratic party.

Ridder, incidentally, is charged with influencing the Associated Press, which may account for the supposed decline in popularity of that once great news agency. He is a director and vice-president of the Associated Press.

Oelrichs was the man who threw the foreign shipping combine's influence and money against the second election of President Harrison, because the big interests could not influence Harrison their way.

Ridder, who succeeded Oelrichs, and Tavenner, the tool of the trusts, are boosting Harmon for the Democratic nomination for president, and are pointing out how much Harmon resembles Grover Cleveland, to whose campaign Oelrichs, "personally," gave $50,000.

It will be recalled that Hermann Ridder "personally," gave $30,000 to the Parker campaign fund.

Tavenner, in a recent congressional inquiry, admitted the queer purposes of his bureau and the source of its unusual policies and inspiration.

What the inquisitive Indiana editor wants to know is: "How far can the Tavenner stuff be trusted?" And also: "Has Taggart started another trust bureau in Indiana to boost Harmon?"

Enjoying a Brief Vacation.

Senator Beveridge, following his visit to Oyster Bay, and his gratifying conference with Theodore Roosevelt, has gone to New Hampshire for a vacation stay with his family. In the meantime the Beveridge home in Indianapolis is being prepared for use.

SIDE TALKS ON PUBLIC AFFAIRS

By Old John Henry.

To the Editor:

I see that Governor Marshall, Steve Fleming, Crawford Fairbanks, Tom Taggart, and a lot of other fellows, including the great army of law-breakers, are agreed on the proposition that churchfolks ought to give all their time to prayer and inward-looking, and hymn-singing, and never take any sort of hand in public affairs.

Governor Marshall tells us that the church arrays a "certain class against itself" every time the church demands legislation.

By sitting tight and sucking its thumb, the church may win the smiling indulgence of Steve Fleming and the rest. But if the church gets busy for reform or for law enforcement, then, according to Governor Marshall, Steve Fleming and his bunch are pretty sure to be sorely displeased. Which is really a result most awful to think about.

Steve Fleming can whip the Twelfth district into line for Marshall and peddle state jobs up and down to win delegates for Marshall's whim. But the church has no business in politics or in legislation. Is that right?

The brewers can manipulate a Democratic caucus, or trick a Democratic state convention, name a brewery attorney for United States senator and write the brewers' will into the Democratic state platform, but the church must stay at home and say nothing. That is what "the dope" is.

Tom Taggart may rise in a Democratic state convention and force the endorsement of his personal lawyer for United States senator, and the church can read about it in the papers afterward.

Taggart can vote 179 delegates in one bunch for any man he chooses, without asking the leave of the 179. But no church man has any business appearing to say Taggart nay. Is that what is meant?

Truly, as now controlled, the Democratic organization is no place for a minister's son. Perhaps Governor Marshall is right, that far.

But it strikes me that church members of Indiana will be slow to accept the governor's dictum against church activity for the betterment of society.

Knowing as we do that men who are most active in the state's political life today, on the Democratic side, are scheming to destroy the existing temperance laws, we can readily see why Steve Fleming and his kind desire that church people shall stay out of politics. Church people united, will prevent the destroyers from getting in their work.

It is hard to understand why Governor Marshall, himself a church man, permits himself and the prestige of his great office to be misled into an absurd attempt to forestall church members in their organized effort on behalf of the general uplift.

Of course it is silly to talk of accomplishing anything without organization. The brewers organize and their organization acts, as an organization.

The church stands, ready organized, for good work. Who shall say that the church must keep in the background when organized lawlessness walks abroad and invades high places and dictates public policies?

The governor ought to quit taking instructions from the Steve Fleming brewery campaign bureau.

OLD JOHN HENRY.

TAGGART'S HOPES.

Oily Boss Whistles Encouragement to Followers in Democratic Woods.

Tom Taggart is not so discreet in the role of political prophet as John Kern appears to be these days. True to his habit of long standing, Mr. Taggart is bestowing predictions of Democratic victory with the same old lavish generosity.

Mr. Taggart does not like the growing confidence and enthusiasm in Republican ranks in Indiana. Apparently he is not pleased by the report that Col. Roosevelt and President Taft are coming to Indiana to speak this campaign. Evidently the French Lick Boys of Democrats regards it as necessary to cheer up his faltering followers.

In order to meet a political emergency of a serious nature, he bobbed up a day or two ago and at Indianapolis gave out a typical Taggart statement in which he said: "It's a cinch for Democracy. Senator Beveridge will soon be numbered with the 'has-beens.' It is a cinch the Democrats will carry Indiana both for the state and legislative tickets." I figure that the coming of Col. Roosevelt to Indiana will do the Democrats more good than thirty Democratic speakers. I will be on hand to do what I can for Kern when the time comes."

Mr. Taggart did not go into details to show why Col. Roosevelt would boost the Taggart cause.

Steve Fleming, head of the state organization of brewers, who "happened in" coincidentally with Mr. Taggart, sought to show that Col. Roosevelt would not be able to influence the views of Indiana voters in a political way. Mr. Fleming refused to talk on the matter of the Democratic revolt against brewery domination. He did not try to account for the fact that many Democratic county conventions are repudiating the liquor plank he wrote for Indiana Democrats.

WOMAN'S IDEAL HOME

Showing How the Comet Was a Blessing After All.

By A. B. SEARLE

Copyright, 1910, by American Press Association.

the building, and the nonappearance of Misses Butler, Fairchild and Waterman, three of the prettiest girls in our home, means that these visitors are—yes, ladies, we may be sure that they are men!"

"Heavens!" exclaimed a hundred voices, and 200 hands were clasped over another hundred bosoms.

"You ladies were appointed to show these intruders the premises Go at once and make a search for them. Bring them and the three missing girls here. All others remain where you are."

Meanwhile there was a concentration of the enemy's forces. The three visitors and the three missing ladies were in a room together, and the girls knew that the visitors were men who had walked into a lion's or rather a lioness' den. Miss Butler was terror stricken on behalf of her cousin, and the other two girls sympathized with her and them. The girls were startled at the sound of the signal order for all to appear in the president's office. Miss Butler, seeing that the battle was on, took command. Two points of retreat were to be considered, the cellar and the cupola. She chose the latter.

"You girls," she said to Misses Fairchild and Waterman, "go and report Leave these boys to me."

"It would not be honorable," said Miss Fairchild, "to let you shoulder the matter. I shall go with you."

"Me, too," said Miss Waterman, her excitement getting the better of her grammar.

The six of them ran up to the cupola and closed the trapdoor behind them. Then they all sat down on the door, screened from any one below by the encircling railing and seat.

Battles are often won or lost in consequence of some trifling incident, and it was so in this case. One of the searchers whose part it was to visit the cupola attempted to open the trapdoor. Since she could not move it, she assumed that it was locked. She was about to go for the key when it occurred to her that if it were locked no one could hide there, so she reported "nothing found."

When the search committee returned to the president and reported that not only the three visitors, but the three prettiest girls in the home, had vanished a hundred voices mingled, each voice suggesting some means whereby the disappearance might have occurred. In this way much time was consumed, and a couple of hours had elapsed before any further action was taken.

"Night or Blucher," as Wellington said at Waterloo, moaned Griggs.

"What do you mean by that?" asked Hughes.

"I mean that if we don't get a show to leave the place pretty soon under cover of darkness it's all up with us."

Fortunately while he spoke the shadows were deepening. As soon as it was dark he told the others that he was going to slide down a steep descent of the roof to a lightning rod and thence to the ground. If he was not put out of the fight, then the next man was to leave by the same route. The girls told him the rod had been in place for thirty years or more and surely would not hold. But Griggs determined to try it. Hughes watched him as he descended till he was lost in the darkness. Presently there was the sound of a shake on the rod, a signal agreed upon to indicate that he was on terra firma.

Hughes followed Griggs, and Mason followed Hughes. The girls were alone.

Now, it needs to be stated that all this occurred at the time when Halley's comet was flaunting its tail at the earth in the western sky. No sooner had the last man descended than Miss Butler, looking up at the heavens for inspiration in forming a plan to get out of the dilemma, saw the comet.

"Girls, I have it," she exclaimed.

"How? What? Which?" cried the other two at once.

"Open the trap and call down for them to come up and see the comet."

"The very thing!" exclaimed the other two.

Miss Fairchild pulled up the trap, and all called out:

"Hello, hello! Mary, Blanche, Sadie, everybody! Come up and see the comet."

The ladies, who were scattered about below, all ran to the foot of the cupola stairs.

"Call Mrs. President!" cried Miss Wrinkles, vice president and custodian.

The president was called. Meanwhile the calls from above were continued.

"Oh, do everybody come up and see the comet! It's beautiful. The tails are as long as a broom handle."

"Young ladies," cried the stern voice of the president, "come down and give an account of yourselves!"

The girls descended, each wearing a well-fledged look of innocent surprise.

"How long have you been up there?" asked the president.

"We went up this afternoon," said Miss Butler, "with our work. It was so cool up there. Then when it began to get dark we concluded we'd stay till the comet grew visible."

"Indeed! Where were you when the signal bell rang?"

"What signal bell?"

"To report at my office."

"Was there a signal bell to report at your office?"

"There was. Now I wish you to tell me what has become of the three visitors who came here this afternoon."

"What three visitors?"

The president, seeing that she was baffled, gave in, and when the girls turned upon her for her unjust suspicions she apologized and gave orders that the disagreeable episode should not be again mentioned.

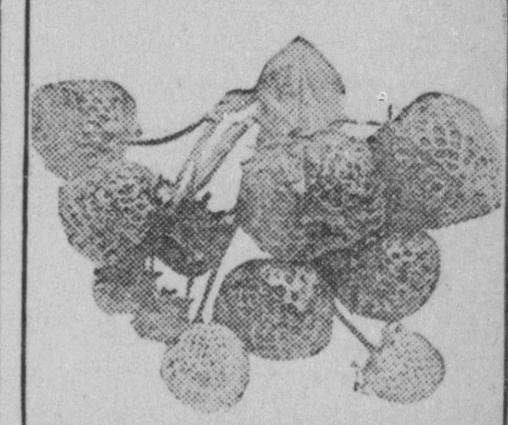

That night the visitors told the story of their adventures beside the campfire.

Farm and Garden

A GOOD STRAWBERRY.

The Buster Considered One of the Best Varieties of This Valuable Fruit.

According to W. T. Macoun, horticulturist of the central experiment farm of the Canadian department of agriculture, the rapid extension of strawberry growing has resulted in the production of very large crops of this valuable fruit, especially in the eastern provinces of the Dominion, where strawberries have come into very general use. The ease with which new varieties of this fruit are produced from seed has resulted in the introduction during the past few years of a large number of new sorts.

The Buster, originated by C. C. Stone of Moline, Ill., is called one of the best varieties. It is roundish, large, bright rather pale red, with not prominent seeds. The flesh is bright red, juicy, briskly subacid, moderately firm, of medium to above in quality. The season is medium late to late, plant vigorous, with medium number of runners; foliage good, but rusts considerably. It keeps its size well.

FARMERS' BOYS AND GIRLS.

Clubs to Interest Them in Work a Recent Development.

Within recent years a new method of agricultural education has been devised in the form of boys and girls' clubs. Such clubs have various objects, but usually they provide for prize contests among the members. Corn growing contests are probably the most common among the boys, although many other crops have been tried, while the girls compete in bread-making or sewing or even test their skill against that of the boys in gardening.

The United States department of agriculture has information of 395 counties in twenty-eight states in which such clubs are organized, with a total membership of about 144,000. New York has about 75,000 members, Nebraska 25,000 and other states smaller numbers. One county in Pennsylvania has 2,000 members. In most cases these clubs are organized under the auspices of some state authority, but in many cases the county superintendent takes the initiative, while in many other cases the rural teachers arrange contests among their own pupils.

The United States department of agriculture also gives assistance through the office of experiment stations by furnishing advice and suggestions. A new farmers' bulletin on boys and girls' agricultural clubs tells how to organize the clubs, how to conduct the contests and what publications will be useful to the boys and girls.

How to Spray Trees.

Assuming that the fruit grower is properly equipped with apparatus and material and ready to apply the spray to the trees, the next question is how to do it. If the day is calm spraying can be done in any direction most convenient. If the wind is light spray so that the wind blows nearly as possible across or at right angles to the rows to be treated. By so doing and working from windward the trees are easily and wholly covered when sprayed on opposite sides.

It should be noted that it is impossible to spray a tree of any size effectively and completely from one side only. In a brisk wind the same rule applies except that only one side of the tree is sprayed, and then watch opportunity and with a changed wind spray the opposite side. By this method the spray will not fall on men or animals, but will be blown through the trees. By the exercise of a little thought and foresight the wind can be made a serviceable ally in spraying. It is quite essential that every part of the tree, trunk, branches, twigs and leaves (if tree is in foliage), should be covered with the solution or mixture.

TO INCREASE REVENUE.
Change Would Mean Over $12,000 Annually for State.

In directing Auditor of State John C. Billheimer to collect taxes from the New York and New Jersey fire insurance companies doing business in Indiana, according to the plan which prevails in these states, Governor Marshall, if sustained by the courts, would increase the revenues of the state by approximately $12,000 annually. The Indiana law provides for alternatives in the collection of insurance taxes. The state may charge 3 per cent. of the gross premiums, less losses, or charge an amount equal to that which would be collected by the respective states of the same companies were of Indiana origin and operated as foreign companies in these states.

With respect to life insurance companies, Auditor Billheimer has found it more profitable to assess them 3 per cent. gross, less losses. While the state would gain $12,000 in using the reciprocal plan against fire companies, it would lose about $45,000 if the same plan were applied to life insurance companies. Mr. Billheimer does not believe that one plan can be used against fire companies and the other against life insurance companies.

Attorney General Bingham believes the state may legally use both plans. The New Jersey law provides for a 2 per cent. gross assessment, the Governor says. Deducting for losses on premiums, it is pointed out that the net assessment under the 3 per cent. basis is but 1.65, of .35 less than the 2 per cent. rate. This .35 amounts to the $12,000, according to Governor Marshall.

LOWER RATES.

Attorney General Asks Commission About Pullman Service.

Attorney General James Bringham of Indiana has filed an intervening petition with the interstate commerce commission asking that lower rates be fixed on Pullman cars within the state of Indiana, as no tourists cars are run in this state. In this territory he asks that the rate for an upper berth be 75 cents between the following points: Indianapolis and Louisville; Crawfordsville and Louisville; Lafayette and Louisville; Bloomington and Louisville; Logansport, Kokomo, Columbus, Ft. Wayne, Richmond and Louisville. The dollar rates are proposed between Lawrenceburg and Fowler and between Sturgis, Mich., and Jeffersonville. The attorney general will appear in Washington to argue the case when it comes up before the commission. The Travelers Protective Association is urging a lower rate for Indiana and will assist in securing it.

PROMOTION

For Four B. & O. Firemen, Residents of Seymour.

M. H. Kimberlin, Edward Arnold, Omer Beach and John Darling, of this city, firemen on the B. & O., have been promoted to engineers. Their promotions came yesterday evening.

The state law requires three years' service as fireman before a man is qualified for promotion to engineer. The four Seymour men had each been firing for five years.

The traffic on the B. & O. has been very heavy for some time and the naming of new engineers has been predicted. Numbers of the old engineers have been wanting vacations, but owing to the shortage of help, their requests could not be granted. With the recent promotions they will probably have opportunity to get the needed rest.

HAVE AGREED ON WORKING BASIS

Walk Out On the Pennsylvania Probably Averted.

CALMLY TALKED THINGS OVER

Heart-to-Heart Conference Between the Representatives of Men and General Manager Resulted in Clearing Up of Misunderstandings and the Creation of a Working Basis on Which to Conclude Peaceful Negotiations.

Philadelphia, July 19.—After the joint committee of the conductors and trainmen's unions on the Pennsylvania lines east of Pittsburg had held conferences with General Manager Myers of the railroad company, it was announced by both sides that a working basis had been agreed on, many misunderstandings cleared up and the likelihood of a walk-out in all probability averted.

Officers of the company said the road had not decided to make any increase, which position it has right along maintained. The union leaders of the conductors and trainmen, likewise, claimed that they had been entirely successful in getting the company to adopt such working conditions as the men had been contending for.

The following statement was issued by the company after the conferences: "At the conference between General Manager Myers and the committee representing the trainmen and conductors employed on the lines of the Pennsylvania east of Pittsburg, Mr. Myers again reiterated the company's position, explaining in detail just what the company would do.

"At a later conference the men accepted the general manager's plan, which in effect was that the company would put into effect conditions, including a minimum day, as detailed in the New York Central award, leaving the company's high rates stand, but not increasing them by making a ten-hour day apply to the rates which were made to fit an eleven- and twelve-hour day."

"The crux of the dispute," explained a Pennsylvania official, "was whether the company would pay for a ten-hour day what it now pays for an eleven-hour day, namely, $4.04. This company absolutely refused to do, but agreed as it said all along it would agree to do, to pay $3.63 for a ten-hour day, allowing all higher rates for longer days to stand as they are now. This has been the principal bone of contention right along and the company long ago signified its intention and willingness to accept the $3.63 for a ten-hour day, according to the new award of the eastern federation of the trainmen.

The trainmen explained that the misunderstanding to which they have referred for the past few days concerned this very provision, and they say it was because of the misunderstanding on this point that they requested meetings. They said that the company had misunderstood them and that they had never sought to be paid $4.04 for a ten-hour day.

The union men contend that all they had sought was the consent of the company to make a ten-hour day the minimum basis of paying wages, thereby abolishing the present system of paying its men a fraction of a day's wage for a fraction of a day's service.

COULDN'T AGREE

Grand Trunk Trainmen and Conductors Have Quit Work.

Montreal, July 19.—A strike of all the conductors and trainmen on the Grand Trunk railway system went into effect at 9:30 o'clock last night. The strike is the result of the failure to arrive at an amicable settlement. A committee representing the men has been in Montreal for some time negotiating with the company. The committee demanded the adoption of the standard territorial wage, but President Hayes refused to agree to this.

A strike vote was taken last week, and the men were unanimous for a strike unless their demands were granted. The ultimatum of the men was made known to the president yesterday, but he refused to grant the demand and the meeting was broken off and a strike was called and went into effect last night. Over 4,000 men are involved.

Extent of Grand Trunk system: Grand Trunk and leased lines, 3,556 miles; Canadian Atlantic, 466; Grand Trunk, western, 336; Detroit, Grand Haven & Milwaukee, 191; Toledo, Saginaw & Muskegon, 116; total mileage operated, 4,645, besides which a large mileage is used under lease throughout northern United States and Canada.

Extends Into Vermont.

New London, Conn., July 19.—All the conductors and trainmen on the Central Vermont railway walked out on strike at 9:30 o'clock last evening. New London is the terminal of the Grand Trunk via the Central Vermont. The strikers are orderly and are congregated in groups about the city, awaiting developments.

HOUSEKEEPING ON HOT DAYS

It Is Better to Cook With Gas Than With Coal.

The housekeeper who wants to preserve her vitality through the summer season should go carefully about her business. There is much she can eliminate if she will only study out the problem of getting the most done with the least effort.

She should be as considerate of her cook as of herself, and if she must prepare the meals without the aid of a cook she wants to spend as little time as possible in the kitchen and to use more gas than coal.

Every one in the house will be better for eating a small amount of food. Iced fruit, a cereal with cream, hot coffee and cold bread with an egg in some fashion is all the breakfast that the healthiest family needs. If she prepares lunch only for the children and herself she can have orangeade, more fruit, cold bread and a salad. For dinner she can avoid heavy meats, have only two vegetables, a salad of lettuce or cold vegetables, with fruit, cheese and crackers as a dessert.

Hot tea and coffee should not be served except for the morning meal, and all hot bread should be avoided. Roasts of any kind are unnecessary, and salads of every kind are healthy and palatable.

Officers of the company said the road had not decided to make any increase, which position it has right along maintained. The union leaders of the conductors and trainmen, likewise, claimed that they had been entirely successful in getting the company to adopt such working conditions as the men had been contending for.

The following statement was issued by the company after the conferences:

"At the conference between General Manager Myers and the committee representing the trainmen and conductors employed on the lines of the Pennsylvania east of Pittsburg, Mr. Myers again reiterated the company's position, explaining in detail just what the company would do.

If she does these things in a sane way she comes out of the hot weather season with her health and temper unimpaired. Not only does she save worry for herself, but much for her family.

New Dishes For Summer.

Eggplant is less enjoyed than it should be on the family table because to the average homemaker the ways of preparing it are limited to one or two recipes.

Try this French formula the next time there is a gap in the vegetable course and see if the critics of the household do not pronounce it a treat: Slice the plant, press out the water and fry as usual. Make half a pint of rich cream sauce. Place a slice (or several of them) to form a layer in a baking dish, cover it with the sauce, sprinkle with grated cheese, salt and pepper. Repeat this until the dish is full, the cheese coming last. Put in a hot oven and brown it nicely.

Orange cream is a good dessert that will be new to many kitchens and may be useful to eke out the required changes from day to day. This is the formula: Make a boiled custard, using very rich milk or thin cream, just a pinch of salt and five eggs. When it has partly thickened add the juice of three sweet oranges (straining carefully) and the grated rind of one. Serve either in a large dish individually or in cups. Let the accompaniment be whipped cream. Split lady fingers laid under the cream make it specially good, but it is sufficiently so alone to dispense with this finish.

While reveling in the lusciousness of cherry pie this cherry season let us not overlook another cherry dessert quite as old, easy to make and almost equally delicious.

An old fashioned baking dish is buttered and the bottom covered with a layer of cherries from which the pits have been removed. Sprinkle with sugar generously or reservedly, according to the sweetness or tartness of the fruit, and just a little grated coconut, covering all with breadcrumbs.

Add enough of the juice of fruit to each-layer to moisten the crumbs thoroughly and continue with alternated layers until the dish is filled, having the top layer one of crumbs, of course. Cover and cook in the oven one hour. Now uncover and brown very quickly. Serve hot with sweet cream or nun's butter sauce.

Eye Strain and Irritability.

Many a woman is blamed for bad temper, "nerves" and general irritability who is simply suffering from unsuspected eye strain.

It is difficult for a person with eye irritation to keep always equable and sunny tempered, and glasses should be worn to counteract the strain.

Sometimes an error in vision exists for years without the person realizing that anything is the matter, because she can see perfectly well.

Headache is one sign of eye strain.

Any student who is irritable after study should have the eyes tested to see if they are at fault. Suitable glasses may make all the difference and add greatly to the comfort and happiness of life.

Many ailments can be traced to eye mischief, and no person can be really happy who suffers from any form of eye strain, because it continually acts as an irritant to the nervous system.

Snappy Sandwiches.

Nasturtium sandwiches are snappy and appetizing for a hot day's picnic or home meal. Pick fresh flowers, take off their stems and crush them between thin slices of bread that have been spread with cream cheese. A little salt and paprika may be added. The salt will always be needed unless butter has been used as well as cheese. The nasturtium stems minced very fine are also tasty used in the same way. And the seed pods are sometimes employed while they are young and green.
